Excerpt: .know not which are the more touching, --such old empty houses, or the homes of the masters sons. Sad and bitter tales lie hidden back of those white doors, --tales of poverty, of struggle, of disappointment. A revolution such as that of 63 is a terrible thing; they that rose rich in the morning often slept in paupers beds. Beggars and vulgar speculators rose to rule over them, and their children went astray. See yonder sad-colored house, with its cabins and fences and glad crops! It is not glad within; last month the prodigal son of the struggling father wrote home from the city for money. Money! Where was it to come from? And so the son rose in the night and killed his baby, and killed his wife, and shot himself dead. And the world passed on. I remember wheeling around a bend...
