Excerpt: . . . 9 Identification: YVRP utilizes research-based indicators to identify youth 14-or 16-to-24 who are most at risk to kill or be killed. Surveillance: Streetworkers, police, and probation officers provide intensive supervision, usually daily, to monitor the youth partners, wherever they are, in their homes, schools, and neighborhoods. Third, graduated sanctions: When a participating youth violates his or her probation, YVRP swiftly imposes sanctions. Research has demonstrated that the prompt deployment of sanctions can be a key element in deterring further criminal behavior. Fourth, positive supports and mentoring: Sanctions alone are not enough to deter youth people from criminal behavior. YVRP streetworkers help youth partners access a range of positive supports, including educational opportunities, literacy, job placement, and drug treatment. A key component of job placement and - a key component of positive supports is the mentoring relationship between streetworkers and youth partners. Streetworkers are from the same neighborhoods and have similar backgrounds as the youth partners. This shared context and experience creates a strong bond...
