NAM SENSE: SURVIVING VIETNAM WITH 101ST AIRBORNE DIVISION (PAPERBACK)

Casemate Books, United States, 2009. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book. Nam Sense is the memoir of a combat squad leader in the 101st Airborne Division. Arthur Wiknik was drafted by the army in 1969 at the age of nineteen, promoted to sergeant without ever setting foot in a combat zone , and sent to Vietnam. He was flown north to Camp Evans, a mixed-unit outpost near Phong Dien, only a few miles from Laos. Wiknik was then thrown straight into the action: he was the first man in his unit to reach the top of Hamburger Hill during one of the last offensives launched by US forces, and later discovered a weapons cache that prevented a sneak attack on his advance fire support base. Between the sporadic episodes of combat he mingled with the locals and defrauded an unwitting US supplier to provide his platoon with a year of good food. This book offers a perfect blend of candour and humour- and it spares nothing and no one in its attempt to convey what really happened during this unpopular war. Nam Sense is not about heroism, mental breakdowns and haunting flashbacks: the GIs Wiknik lived and fought with during his year-long tour were there to do their duty, support their comrades and get home alive. The soldiers I knew , explains the author, demonstrated courage, principle, kindness, and friendship - all the elements found in other wars Americans have proudly fought in. About the Author ARTHUR WIKNIK was drafted into the U.S. Army in 1968, selected to be trained as a Non-Commissioned Officer (NCO) and went to war in Vietnam.
